A CONCURRENT RESOLUTION honoring twenty-four Clay High School students for capturing first place at the 2008 Indiana State Thespian Competition.

Whereas, twenty-four students from Clay High School spent months arduously preparing a performance of "The Diviners," by Jim Leonard Jr., a drama that depicts a small Indiana town named Zion, its charismatic preacher and a misunderstood boy who has the gift of divining;

Whereas, the students' talent and focus enhanced their performance, which led them to a Northern Indiana Thespian Regional title on January 19, 2008 in Warsaw;

Whereas, the students' dedication to perfection kept them focused on and connected to their characters. Their performances captivated audiences transporting them from the theater seats to Zion, Indiana, a true indicator of a great ensemble cast;

Whereas, two months later on March 15, the cast of twenty-four Clay High School students captured top honors at the 2008 Indiana State Thespian Competition, held in the Ransburg Auditorium in Indianapolis; and

Whereas, the actors and actresses received second place in national competition, and several of the students participated in various individual state events: Therefore,
